Welcome in. Take what helps; leave the rest.

This is a free printable pack for moving gently at any size, at any energy level, on any given day. No apps, no signups, no streaks to lose. Print the page you need, or all of them, and let the rest wait.

> Nothing here knows your weight, your history, or your limits. Pick the sheet that matches today's energy — not the one you wish you had. Some days that's a stretch card. Some days it's the permission slip. Both count.

What's in the pack

- Five-Minute Wake-Up Stretch — one card, six easy moves, done before the coffee cools.
- Chair Exercises — two pages of seated movement for low-energy days.
- Walk-and-Count Mileage Log — walk, count something, jot it down.
- Balance Practice — everyday steadiness, near a counter, at your own pace.
- Water-Sip Tracker — tick sips, not perfection.
- Rest-Day Permission Slip — the official-looking excuse to not move, signed by you.
- Movement Bingo — a monthly card of tiny wins. Any five in a row counts.

Printing tips

- Print at 100% / "Actual size" on letter paper. It scales fine onto A4 too.
- You keep this file; it works offline forever. Nothing is collected, nothing is tracked.

Five-Minute Wake-Up Stretch

Six easy moves, about 50 seconds each. Do them standing by your bed, in the doorway light, wherever the day finds you.

Before you start: this card is education, not exercise prescription. Move through it only if your doctor or physical therapist has cleared you to stretch — and only into whatever range feels easy today. Gentle shaking off, not forcing.

- [ ] 1 Reach up tall, breathe out slow

Arms as high as they comfortably go, palms up or down — your call. Ten short, unhurried breaths.

- [ ] 2 Shoulder rolls

Roll them up, back, and down five times forward, then five times backward. Small circles are fine.

- [ ] 3 Easy neck tilts

Right ear toward right shoulder; hold a few breaths. Then left. Go only as far as is comfortable — never push the neck.

- [ ] 4 Standing side reach

Left hand on hip, right arm up and curve gently sideways. A few slow breaths. Then switch sides.

- [ ] 5 March in place — small steps

Lift one knee, then the other, wherever knees go today. 10 lifts if you can, 2 if that's what there is.

- [ ] 6 Big sigh-out roll-down

Head heavy, chest, ribs — curl down only as far as it likes. Hang a breath. Rise slowly, stacking as you go.

Done as far as step 6? That was the whole card. Beat-up day? Steps 1–3 count as a full round.
